Friends, colleagues celebrate retiring Chief Judge Newton

By Jeremy Wade Shockley The Southern Ute Drum

Llaine Newton sat next to her husband on May 13, the Southern Ute Indian Tribal Council to her right, esteemed colleagues to her left, and a full house seated before her.

As chief judge for the Tribal Court for more than 16 years, Newton is no stranger to working in front of an audience but this time all eyes were on her as she prepared to retire from her longtime position. Newton's retirement party took place at the Sky Ute Casino Resort, opening with an honor song by drum group 12 Gauge.

Newton's last official day on the job is today.

In her opening remarks, she said she had a dream in 1979 "that I wanted to be a judge," and thanked the late Chairman Leonard C. Burch for helping make that dream a reality.

David West, magistrate judge for the U.S. District Court in Colorado and a longtime acquaintance of Newton's, was the first to express thanks to the retiring judge. He shared a bittersweet story about the state of justice on Indian lands and how it's progressed over the years.

"Elaine Newton ... has always been fair, effective, and protected the best interest of the tribal community," he said. "Newton has succeeded at maintaining the integrity of the judicial process."

Larry Garner, a retired Colorado State Patrol officer whose jurisdiction included the Southern Ute Reservation highways, wished Newton the best.

"[Newton] is directly responsible for positive change in Tribal Court and she should be proud," he said.

"She still takes the time to know her community and always has," said Heydinger, the Tribal Court's public defender, who added Newton could always tell you where just about anyone lived on

On a personal note, the councilman said Newton is "more than a mother; she is a friend. I am very proud of my mother."

Newton began working for the tribe as a dispatcher and patrol officer for the Southern Ute Police Department in the 1970s, then worked in the Planning Department. She started in the Tribal Court as a paralegal in 1988, later becoming an associate judge and finally chief judge in 1994.

For her part, Newton said she was grateful for the kind words and gifts.

The Kidney Corner:

Making sense of ACE/ARB soup

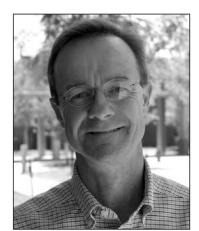

By Dr. Mark Saddler Durango Nephrology Associates

In the last issue of the Kidney Corner, we addressed some of the important ways to treat chronic kidney disease, the condition in which the kidneys' ability to excrete waste products is impaired.

In this issue, we will discuss two groups of medicines that are instrumental in caring for patients with chronic kidney disangiotensin-converting enzyme (ACE) inhibitors and angiotensin receptor blockers (ARBs). These medicines inhibit the formation or action of angiotensin, a hormone that raises blood pressure.

The most commonly used ACE inhibitor currently in Ignacio is lisinopril. ACE inhibitors all end in the suffix "pril." The most commonly used ARBs currently in use locally are losartan and telmisartan. ARBs all end in the suffix "sartan." ACE inhibitors and ARBs are blood pressure-lowering drugs, used frequently in all types of hypertensive patients, even those who don't have chronic kidney disease. But their benefits extend beyond just blood pressure lowering alone. They have an independent effect in lowering the pressure in the glomeruli, or filters, of the kidney. This results in long-term preservation of kidney function, but can occasionally cause a short-term decrease in kidney function.

Even when kidney function does drop after starting an ACE inhibitor or ARB, the medicine can usually still be continued, provided the kidney function does not continue to worsen. In fact, those patients with a shortterm decline in kidney function may even have the best longterm protection!

In addition, these medicines can both sometimes cause an increase in the blood level of potassium, an electrolyte that can sometimes accumulate dangerously in patients with kidney disease. So it's clear that when using these drugs, careful monitoring is needed. However, their long-term benefit to kidney function is substantial, so it's worth trying to use these agents in almost all patients with chronic kidney disease.

One way of monitoring how well ACE inhibitors and ARBs are working is to monitor the amount of protein, or albumen, in the urine. A decrease in the urine protein is a marker of the success of this therapy. The urine protein is often repeated at intervals to confirm that this therapy is achieving the desired protective effect.

Like all medicines, ACE inhibitors and ARBs occasionally can cause side effects. As discussed above, even though they are associated with long-term preservation of kidney function, they can occasionally cause a short-term drop in kidney function. So the kidney function needs to be monitored carefully during their use. They can occasionally cause a cough (ACE inhibitors more frequently than ARBs). Rarely, people can be allergic to them, resulting in a swelling of the lips or tongue. This can be dangerous and the medicine should be stopped if this happens.

These useful drugs are also first-line agents for treating patients with heart failure. Overall they are extremely valuable agents to protect kidneys and improve outcomes for patients with chronic kidney

Archuleta County, Southern Ute Tribe sign property tax agreement

Media release Southern Ute Indian Tribe

At a signing ceremony held at tribal headquarters near Ignacio, the Archuleta County Board of County Commissioners and the Southern Ute Indian Tribe signed an intergovernmental agreement regarding taxation.

Under the agreement, the issue of the taxability of the tribe's feeowned property in the Archuleta County portion of the reservation is addressed in the same manner as that issue is addressed in a 1996 Taxation Compact among the Tribe, La Plata County, and State of Colorado. All of the tribe's on-reservation property interests, including both land held in trust status by the United States and land owned by the tribe in its own name (fee-owned land), as well as the tribe's proportionate ownership interest in on-reservation property owned by tribal partnerships and joint ventures, are recognized as exempt from taxation.

The tribe agrees to make a payment in lieu of taxes, however, for the real property interests that are owned by the tribe in fee status. The amount of the tribe's PILT payment is calculated as the nonpublic school share of the annual county tax assessment, which equates to approximately one third of what the taxes would have been if not for the property's ownership by the tribe.

Through the tribe's PILT and the state's school funding equalization, it is expected that the county and school district will be kept whole. Approximately one third of the tribe's 700,000-acre reservation in southwestern Colorado lies within Archuleta County.

Newly elected Chairwoman Pearl E. Casias said the agreement is an example of the growing communication and cooperation between the tribe and its Archuleta County neighbors.

"As tribal economic development activity expands into the Archuleta County portion of the reservation, the need for constructive working relationships and intergovernmental interaction becomes increasingly important," she said. "Indian and non-Indian interests in the reservation land base are intricately interwoven due in large part to the checkerboard of land ownership on the reservation. The checkerboard of land ownership on the reservation can create jurisdictional issues, which, without good communication, can lead to conflict. Through this agreement, a conflict regarding taxation is avoided. Our hope is that this agreement will help establish a long-term, government-to-government planning and regulatory relationship between the tribe and county."

Chairman Clifford Lucero of the Archuleta County Board of County Commissioners echoed Casias's comments.

"This agreement is the result of renewed and improved communications between the Southern Ute Indian Tribe and Archuleta County," he said. "The challenges presented by the checkerboard nature of the tribal lands can be conquered through communication. With good old-fashioned hard work and a constructive, communicative relationship, the challenges of tomorrow, for all our people, can be overcome. Archuleta County thanks the tribe for its hard work on this agreement, and we look forward to continuing to work together in establishing a long-term government-to-government relationship between the county and the tribe."

Season ends in district semis

By Joel Priest Special to the Drum

Despite a nasty outbreak of Paonia, Ignacio's Clayton Jefferson stayed immune.

And provided a booster shot to the Bobcats' confidence when they needed it most.

Watching from the visitors' dugout May 7 at Canyon View Park in the bottom of the third inning, Jefferson saw a manageable three-run deficit explode into 10 before relief pitcher Tyler Young (1.2 IP, 2 H, 3 R, K, BB) got Eagle leftfielder Dustin Braslin to fly to right and end the onslaught.

Ignacio had just mounted a serious threat in the frame's top half, loading the bases — via walks to starter Mark Garcia and first baseman Jesse Vigil, sandwiching a Young single — with two out. But facing a foe who could suddenly put Ignacio ahead with just a swing, PHS not only had the proverbial "ice water" in their veins, but called it Casey Gillenwater. And the senior proved frigid on the warm Saturday in Grand Junction, getting Orion Watts to fly out deep to center.

So stepping to the plate as a pinch-hitter (and then defensive replacement in right) for ninehole hitter Chris McDonald after that massive momentum swing, Jefferson found himself against Paonia's ace with two outs. Second baseman Christian Rockwell had grounded out to Losing seniors Garcia, Watts, infielders Garrett Becker and Tyler Wancura, and outfielders Ryan Brooks and Pedro Vigil, as well as JV outfielder Tanner Harwood, Ignacio finished 2011 at 4-13 overall.

Paonia, meanwhile, went on to defeat Dolores in the D-2 title game. The San Juan Basin League champs turned the tables on the Eagles in last weekend's regionals, however, advancing to this weekend's "Final Four" by out-gunning PHS 18-11 in the Region 1 finale.

The SJBL is also alive in Class 1A, with Nucla (12-6) reaching "Great Eight." Mustangs' scheduled game against Simla was weather-postponed until May 16, after the Drum's deadline.

The state championship is scheduled for May 21 at Englewood High School, with the 2A grand finale slated to follow in the afternoon. DHS (17-4) will first battle Rye (21-0) in Gillenwater (W-CG; 5 IP, 8 K, 2 one semifinal today.

Soccer improves in RHS rematch

Special to the Drum

Ahead of her sister by 364 days in life, Ridgway senior Morgan Jossi still trailed younger sibling Audrey in the soccer goals-scored category. And the junior had just added another to her count during the first half of the Lady Demons' home match on May 4.

And as the match continued rolling their way, knowing he'd likely have to use the older of the two at her usual defensive spot full-time in RHS' season finale two days later against state tournament-bound Bayfield, head coach Tim Lyons moved Morgan Jossi to the front line late against Ignacio.

But the Lady Bobcats, irritated with the previous afternoon's 2-1 loss at Center—the Lady Vikings' first win in years—not only foiled the plan, but played a second half along the lines head coach Andrew Fenity had sought all through, but had seldom seen in the taxing 2011 season.

With goalie Nicole Williams continuing to develop under fire, totaling 17 saves at Solar Ranch, the Lady Demons scored just

By Joel Priest twice in the second half, and went scoreless during its first 20 minutes before Grace Benasutti finally put a ball past IHS' keeper. Moved to the field so forward Alma Johnson could rest a pair of ailing arches, Ridgway starting goalie Rowan VanArsdell then scored in the 69th minute before Ignacio re-tightened their defense and survived RHS' remaining attacks—many from Morgan Jossi.

> The 6-0 final score verified the improvement over a 7-nil loss to the Lady Demons at IHS Field, and was achieved without a key figure in forward/midfielder Destinee Lucero. Inspired play from sophomore Teresa Zito, filling Lucero's role, was a major reason—as was that of soph Angel Paul and freshman Malli Benevidez, trying to keep pace with Ridgway's Audrey Jossi and Scarlett Holvenstot.

Moved by Lyons back in the formation to shore up his defense, junior Lauren Gleason didn't forget her scoring touch and opened the scoring in the 13th minute—earning credit for match-winner—with Holvenstot marking five minutes later for a 2-0 lead. Audrey Jossi then struck in the 23rd, and Holvenstot banged in a Gleason rebound in the 39th for a 4-0 halftime advantage.

All told, Ridgway (final record 6-7-1 overall, 6-5-1 3A Southwestern) put 19 of their 32 shots on net and also gained six corner-kick attempts. Ignacio, playing most of the match in their defensive third of the field, managed no shots on either VanArsdell or Johnson (who officially took over in the 32nd minute). But in limiting their opponent to fewer goals than the previous encounter, a moral victory was achieved.

And the lessons learned should carry over into 2012, as both the Lady 'Cats and Lady Demons will look almost identical to the current campaign's rosters. Ignacio (0-11-1, 0-11-1 SWL) will lose no active seniors to graduation, while Ridgway will lose just Morgan Jossi and Savannah Davis.

GOT A GOAL: Against Center, sophomore Jasmine Red scored IHS' goal, giving the Lady 'Cats three for the season (Lucero booked the other two in a 2-2 draw with CHS in their first meeting).

Long-distance 'Call': Cats to Jeffco

By Joel Priest

Special to the Drum

Long after everyone else leaves, they're still there. Varsity soccer matches have kicked off after their unique practice begins, and have finished before it ends — their lengthy apparatus all still vertical, standing at attention before the users jet down the runway.

But when the Ignacio boys' pole vaulters finally call it a day whether working at IHS or Bayfield — they hope, dare we say expect, for results preferably identical to those obtained May 14.

Competing at the combined 2A/1A Western Slope League Championships in Grand Junction, the Bobcats placed 1-2-5 in the discipline, and all three — respectively Ethan Pearson, Casey Haga, Dusty Mangus — secured a coveted top-18 seeding for this weekend's State Championships in Lakewood.

Inside Stocker Stadium, the top-seeded Pearson — already with a best of 12'3", good enough for sixth-best in Class 2A — won by clearing 12'0". Haga, with the eighth-best spot locked up for Jeffco Stadium, was second in G.J. at 11'6" after using fewer attempts than Travis Gore of West Grand Michelle Simmons nailed down the squad's other individual title at the WSL's, clearing 5'1" in the high jump and nailing down a spot in Lakewood. She also qualified for state with a 13.36-second preliminary pass in the 100 meters, and an earlier 27.47 in the 200 endured for a third Jeffco berth.

Katelyn Sivers, in keeping with the team's success in the pole vault, will also be headed to the Metro Area as a girls' representative by way of an earlier 7'9" best.

Adam Herrera will travel for the 200- and 400-meter dashes, his 52.38 in the 400 prelims inside Stocker good enough to punch a State ticket. Pearson will join him in the 400, clocking a 52.68 in the prelims to just crack the season's top-18. Shane Richmond and Colton Wyatt will go in the discus, as will the boys' 4x100-meter and 4x4 relays.

Action in Lakewood commenced yesterday, and will conclude tomorrow evening.

Planning for Spring Farming Activities

Spring farming activities are getting in full swing. Planning spring agricultural activities is imperative for a successful production year. The Southern Ute Indian Tribe's Agriculture Division is planning for the coming season. Early planning and preparation will help us to be more efficient in assisting Tribal Member Ag producers with their farming activities. Custom Farming services are scheduled on a first come first serve basis with payment of one half of the total estimate due prior to work implementation. The Agriculture Division provides services to Tribal Members on Tribal land only. We no longer provide custom farming services to non-tribal producers or on any non-tribal land.

We would like to assist Tribal Member farmers with technical planning needs. If you need information on agricultural production stop by. Providing technical assistance and agriculture information is an important part of our service to the membership. We would also like to remind Tribal Elders that we provide rotor tilling and brush hogging up to one acre at no charge to you. If you are looking to do a garden this year please give us a call and we will be happy to assist you in getting your ground prepared for planting!

Custom Farm rates have not changed for 2011. We have added new activities for Tribal Member producers, these are: round baling, deep ripping, field aeration and fertilizer application.

The NRMP is a living document subject to periodic updates in order to respond to changing needs and directions as determined by the Tribe. The last major update occurred in 2000, and the plan is currently effective through 2020.

The NRMP is divided into multiple sections, including (but not limited to) narrative descriptions of reservation setting and resources; a listing of related goals and objectives drawn from the Tribe's comprehensive plan; a summary of management issues and policies based in part on Tribal Member feedback; comprehensive descriptions of seven different watershed management units along with management options for each; and detailed GISproduced maps and data for the reservation. CenturyLink offers telephone assistance to individuals living on Tribal Lands

CenturyLink is energizing its efforts to inform residents of two assistance programs that provide discounts on initial telephone installation and basic monthly telephone service to qualifying low-income consumers. Link-Up helps these consumers pay the initial costs of getting telephone service. Lifeline provides certain discounts on monthly service for qualified subscribers.

Lifeline and Link-Up are available to qualifying consumers in every U.S. state (territory and commonwealth). Qualifications for participation vary by state. States with their own programs have their own criteria. In states that rely solely on the federal program, the subscriber must participate in one of the following programs: Medicaid, food stamps, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Federal Public Housing Assistance or the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), Head Start, the National School Lunch Program's Free Lunch Program, Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) or if the Household annual gross income is at or below 135% of the federal poverty level.

The amount of the discounts also varies by state. Link-Up helps qualified low-income consumers to connect to the telephone network. This federal program offsets 1/2 of the initial hook-up fee, up to $30, for qualified households.

Residents of American Indian and Alaskan Native tribal lands may qualify for an additional $25 of enhanced Lifeline support monthly and up to $70 of expanded Link-Up support beyond current levels. An individual living on tribal lands may also qualify for Lifeline and Link-Up discounts if he or she participates in one of the above programs or one of the following federal programs: Bureau of Indian Affairs General Assistance or Tribally-Administered Temporary Assistance to Needy Families.

Individuals living in a CenturyLink service area should call 800-201-4099 or visit www.centurylink.com/lifeline to inquire about eligibility.

Congratulations & memorials

To Seth Roubideaux

CONGRATULATIONS from graduating from Bayfield High School!! It's been a long four years and you have accomplished a lot for yourself. Now that reality has set in, you will now have to fulfill the rest of your career and dreams. May you accomplish all that you set out for yourself. You have the support of your Family, Aunties & Uncles (both on & off) the reservation to help you along. Dream big and you never know we may be watching you on National television. Your name may be with those Native American athletes like Shoni Schimmel (University of Louisville Basketball player), 3rd picked WNBA, Tahnee Robinson (Connecticut Suns basketball player), & Jacoby Ellsbury (Boston Red Socks, Centerfield). You will have to work hard academically & getting yourself in shape. Remember, College is much tougher with all that reading & handing in thesis, more reading, more thesis, etc., than High School. Anyways, I pray that you reach your goals in life, and remember to always put the Creator first & foremost in whatever you do, that is really important. Again, Seth, Congratulations Nephew. May the Creator Bless You in all that you do and keep you safe.

Auntie, Darlene F.

'Dancing Bears' Festival of Ute Artisans

Attention all Ute artisans

The first annual "Dancing Bears," a festival of Ute artisans will be held May 28 and 29 at the Southern Ute Multi-purpose Building. You are invited to participate, enter your artwork, and sell your artwork at no cost.

The event is open to all enrolled Ute tribe members from the three Ute tribes. Entries will be accepted on Friday, May 27 beginning at 1 p.m. and closing at 5 p.m. There are six categories available including traditional and cultural items; such as cradleboards, bows and arrows, hides, dolls, beadwork, and basketry.

We are also encouraging you to display your old antique family photos and artwork of your deceased artists.

Nu inikH is a group of tribal members representing each of the three Ute tribes. The goal is to preserve the culture and promote the artwork of our Ute artists and artisans. There will be Ute storytellers, and musical entertainers, flutists, and performers. On Friday there will be a Ute fashion show at 3:00 p.m.

If you are interested in participating in any capacity, please contact one of the committee members or e-mail eliseredd@yahoo.com.

Thank you, Members of the Nu inikH committee Elise Redd, Lark Goodtracks, Neida Ray, San Jean Burch, Ernie Watts, Inez Cloud, Norman Lansing, Mariah Cuch, Katherine Jacket, Lylene Scott, Yolinda Joy, Rose Paytiamo, Conrad Thompson, Selma Lang, Nova Deen Burch, Vanessa Carel and Terry Box Encouraging all Ute artists to participate!

The Ute Made "Nu inikH" artists will host. This is done to support our Ute artists in sharing and respecting our humble way. Our arts are not dead, our arts are a continuing part of the life that is Nuche.

We do these things on behalf of those artists yet to come, and those who have lived their lives ahead of us. This is done as an invitation to share, to come together in a humble way, as some were taught not to flaunt, or to be prideful. One does not choose this life as an artist, as it is a gift of knowledge and skill, driven by the heart to express its self.

ALL UTE ARTISTS (must be enrolled in one of the three Ute tribes) are welcome to participate and we look forward to sharing our work with one another.

Categories: both traditional and contemporary paintings; drawings; graphics; photography; pottery: traditional and contemporary; sculpture: stone, bronze, other 3D media; jewelry & lapidary work: traditional & contemporary; dolls; clothing; quilts; beadwork; quillwork; cradleboards; baskets.

Traditional cultural-based work: hides, knives and bows and arrows.

Display your old photos and artwork of the deceased: artwork of family members who have journeyed into the spirit world, and old antique photographs of family members and friends will be displayed.

Ute Fashion Show: Friday, May 27, at 3 p.m. Interested in modeling your outfit? Call Inez Cloud at 970-749-5988.

Obituaries

BAKER - Southern Ute Tribal member Iden C. Baker passed into the Spirit world on Friday morning, May 6, 2011, at Mercy Regional Medical Center due to an extended illness. Iden was born May 25, 1949, in Ignacio, Colo. He attended Ignacio High School, and worked for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe in various departments.

Known as "Nig" or "Iky" by his family, Iden was an outdoors man. He loved fishing, traveling and picnicking. Most of all, he loved the time he spent at family celebrations. When Iden turned the big "5-0" a surprise celebration was given in his honor by his niece LeAnn, where he was surrounded by family. In recent years, it was his niece Terena that kept his spirits going, along with the family pets Rowdy, Daisy Mae, Tinka, and Princess, and his cat ML. Whenever his nieces and nephews would return from their travels, they would go to their "Uncle Nig" and tell him of where they had been and what they had seen. He was always happy to hear of their adventures. He encouraged his niece Amber and nephew Anthony to do well in their endeavors.

Iden's hobbies included collecting buffaloes, doing puzzles, and buying motorcycle memorabilia from the bike rally. According to his mom, he made the best coffee.

Iden is survived by parents Clifford and Sarah of Ignacio; sisters Terry Box of Ignacio, Connie Mae Baker of Ignacio, Ann Blackbird of Lawrence, Kan.; brothers Melvin Baker, Ronnie Baker and Tooley Box, all of Ignacio; his aunt Vida Peabody of Ignacio; other cousins, family members and friends.

He is preceded in death by his grandmother Alma Box, uncles Emil Box, James Baker and Eugene Baker; brothers Ted Baker and Weslee Baker; and nephews Ronald Baker and Shonie Baker.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that donations be sent to the Ignacio EMT's in memory of Iden. Memorial services were held May 11, 2011, at the Southern Ute Memorial Chapel, in Ignacio, Larry Tucker officiated. Visitation took place before the service.

Walking together on annual 19-mile trek

The "Walking Together for Healthier Nations" event began its annual 19-mile trek from the Ute Mountain Visitors Center (above) at the southern junction of U.S. highways 491 160 to the Four Corners Monument on May 13. The Red Sky drum group sang a flag song to begin the day. This year's group included a few elders, (left) including Salma Lang (above right) from Ignacio. Walkers from the Four Corners Regional Health Center in Ignacio and mile marker 29 on the Utah-Colorado border began at the same time, eventually congregating in the afternoon at the entrance to the Four Corners Monument. A Bear Dance demonstration (below left) also took place. Ute Mountain Ute Councilman Manuel Hart (below right) talked about the good things the walk promotes.

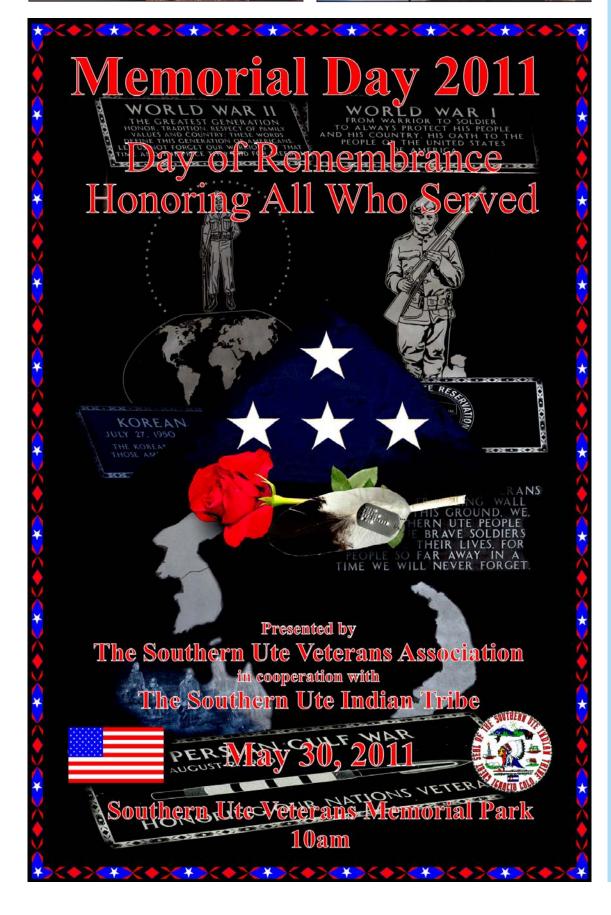

Ignacio 'moves it' during 5K

The "Just Move It" program, along with the Southern Ute Health Department, hosted its annual 5K walk/run in Ignacio on May 14. Many community members and participants of the JMI program enjoyed the morning excursion, which began at the SunUte Community Center's multipurpose field and continued east towards Scott's Pond, south along the Los Pinos River trail, east on Bear Dance Drive towards Ouray Memorial Cemetery, then back to the start. The "Just Move It" walk took place on the heels of the 19-mile "Walking Together for Healthier Nations" walk the day before. The program promotes health through walking and exercise. Alice Red (left) and Raymond Frost Sr. (right) make their way east toward the finish line.
